ARTIST SHOWCASE : TRISH THOMASELLI

Who's been recording at our studio?

By Danielle F. Gowen

Patricia Thomaselli (Trish) found our Poughkeepsie, NY recording studio through an online Internet search. She wanted to surprise her husband with a special song recording for his upcoming birthday party. We enjoyed meeting Trish and helping her make that surprise a success. Let's get to know Trish a little better and understand why she's giving the gift of her voice to her husband – shall we?

Trish is the youngest of six children from Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, NY. When she was a very young child, her mother would put her in the bathtub and tell her to sing and not stop until she came back for her (hence mom would know Trish was ok if she could hear her singing). Well little did mom know this would nurture her daughter's singing voice and musical artistry. Trish would just float and hum and make up songs, but since she did it every day for many years - the seed was planted.

Once in high school, Trish was fortunate to be inspired by an incredibly talented music teacher, Kathy Mesic. She recognized Trish's rare love of music and that she "wasn't just there to fill a chair", as Trish told us. Kathy Mesic's husband was also a music teacher and they had five children, incredibly gifted with musical talent as well. Sounds like a great person to have as a mentor!

While in high school, Trish auditioned for and was accepted to every state and county competition for all four years. In her senior year, she was invited to audition for the National Choir to represent the United States on a European tour. Only one vocalist and one instrumentalist from each state would be accepted. Trish made the cut and received an opportunity of a lifetime. She performed for the U.S. National Choir in Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Paris, London and Holland at some of the most famous venues in the world. continued on pg. 2

THE BIRTHDAY GIFT: GIVE THE GIFT OF MUSIC

Trish surprised her husband at his 50th birthday celebration with her pre-recorded vocal rendition of John Legend's very popular "All Of Me".

It was recorded and mixed at Full Circle Studio - Hudson Valley. Daniel (Head Engineer), Bjorn (Studio Engineer) and Trevor (Intern) met and worked with Trish. Everyone enjoyed the experience, especially since her husband thought she was out shopping (remember it was a surprise). According to Trish, he loved his gift and it was well worth it!

"It was such an honor and a thrill. One I will never forget," Trish says.

Trish and her dad shared a love of music; together and constantly, they listened to Pavarotti, the 1812 Overture, and their favorite classical composer, Mozart. She knew she found her voice when under the guidance of Mrs. Mesic, her confidence enabled her to be The National Anthem soloist at local sporting events. She was all by herself, in front of a crowd singing a cappella. Once unleashed, she seized the opportunity to perform anywhere and everywhere she was invited to sing The National Anthem. From there she became a wedding singer at hundreds of weddings over the next decade.

Trish used her talent to cater to the musical whims and wishes of many brides and grooms over the years.

When Trish married the love of her life, she pre-recorded their wedding song in a "little" recording studio in Woodstock, NY (apparently closet sized, she told us). Later, while traveling with her husband for his work, she crossed paths with an Emmy Award winning composer and singer, David Barrett. He most graciously allowed her to record one of "his" songs at a recording studio in Ann Arbor, MI. Again, Trish says, "What a thrill"!

Since the birth of her two sons, Trish's audience has mostly been her family. "They are honest and fair", Trish states. She proudly acknowledges the talent of her oldest son, who is following in her footsteps with both school and county choir. He too shares the joy of music which now runs at least three generations deep in her family.

We hope you've enjoyed meeting Trish as much as we have. Please view photos of Trish and listen to her recorded sample on our website. This article was created in appreciation of our clients and our relentless support of the entertainment industry in the local community and surrounding areas.
