Additional professional vocalists as mentors and other industry guest speakers will be invited to participate throughout the year to address interests of the group. If you currently sing or aspire to do so, we would like to meet you!

Robin Ware Bio: through Robin's many years in the entertainment business, she has performed with numerous jazz trios/quartets and big bands, including: The Air Force Jazz Band, Dover AFB, Dover, NH and the 22 piece George Ine Orchestra. She has also performed at numerous clubs and resorts throughout the Northeast and in California; made numerous TV and radio appearances; performed at the World's Fair; Governor, Senatorial and Congressional balls/fund raisers; performed the "National Anthem" for Ronald Reagan at some of his campaign fundraising events and at the Special Olympics.

While under recording contract, Robin had several top 10 tunes on the pop charts and her album was chosen #1 new country female release by "Cash Box Magazine" in Nashville, TN while Johnny Cash's new album was chosen as the #1 male release. However, her real love has always been jazz, as she started performing summers with a jazz quartet at the young age of 10 in a Westchester NY night club.

Robin's vocal coaches were both out of New York City. One vocal coach was renowned Bernie Wayne (located at the historic musical Brill Building at Broadway & 49th Street), composer of "Blue Velvet", the "Miss America Theme" and "Laughing On the Outside, Crying On the Inside" and many more. Another was, Marguerite Haymes, mother of Dick and Bob Haymes. These famous brothers' combined accolades included: actor, TV host, renowned jazz vocalist, jazz big band leader, and songwriter.

Robin considers herself a "vocalizer/song stylist" and has, numerous times, been compared to Sarah Vaughan and Nancy Wilson. A quote about Robin, from jazz bebop drummer, Art Frank, who regularly played with jazz trumpet great, Chet Baker: "You are a combination of Sarah, Ella and Carmen", as her vocal stylization and interpretation is unique.
